Purpose
The purpose of the Reading Specialist test is to measure the requisite knowledge and skills that an entry-level educator in this field in Texas public schools must possess. The test is a requirement for candidates seeking a Reading Specialist certificate.

Test Characteristics
Number of test items: 90 multiple-choice questions. Typically, 80 multiple-choice questions are scorable and 10 multiple-choice questions are used for pilot testing purposes and are nonscorable (i.e., they do not contribute to the examinee’s score).

Score scale: The Reading Specialist test is scored on a 100–300 scale, with a passing score of 240.

Test Structure
The Reading Specialist test contains the following domain and test item structure:

Test Administration
On each test date, the Reading Specialist test is administered as a half-session test during the morning and afternoon test sessions. Each session is five hours long.

Scoring
Results are reported as scaled scores in a range from 100 to 300, with a passing score of 240. The total test score is based on an examinee’s performance on the entire test. Domain and competency performance information, which is provided on the Examinee Score Report, is based on an examinee’s performance on each domain and each competency.

Please note:

- Domain and competency performance information presents the number of questions answered correctly out of the total number of scorable questions appearing on the test.
- Domain and competency performance information is included to help assess an examinee’s areas of relative strength and need.
- Domain and competency performance information may be based on comparatively few test questions and may be less reliable than total test information.

Test Framework
The complete test framework for this field, containing the competencies and descriptive statements for each domain, appears on the following pages.

Domain I  Instruction and Assessment: Components of Literacy
(approximately 57% of the test)
Standards Assessed:
  Reading Specialist Standard I:
  Components of Reading: The reading specialist applies knowledge of the interrelated components of reading across all developmental stages of oral and written language and has expertise in reading instruction at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

Domain II  Instruction and Assessment: Resources and Procedures
(approximately 14% of the test)
Standards Assessed:
  Reading Specialist Standard II:
  Assessment and Instruction: The reading specialist uses expertise in implementing, modeling, and providing integrated literacy assessment and instruction by utilizing appropriate methods and resources to address the varied learning needs of all students.

Domain III  Meeting the Needs of Individual Students
(approximately 14% of the test)
Standards Assessed:
  Reading Specialist Standard III:
  Strengths and Needs of Individual Students: The reading specialist recognizes how the differing strengths and needs of individual students influence their literacy development, applies knowledge of primary and second language acquisition to promote literacy, and applies knowledge of reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities to promote literacy.

Domain IV  Professional Knowledge and Leadership
(approximately 14% of the test)
Standards Assessed:
  Reading Specialist Standard IV:
  Professional Knowledge and Leadership: The reading specialist understands the theoretical foundations of literacy; plans and implements a developmentally appropriate, research-based reading/literacy curriculum for all students; collaborates and communicates with educational stakeholders; and participates and takes a leadership role in designing, implementing, and evaluating professional development programs.
DOMAIN I—INSTRUCTION AND ASSESSMENT: COMPONENTS OF LITERACY

Competency 001 (Oral Language)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of oral language development, relationships between oral language development and the development of reading skills, and instructional methods that promote students' oral language development at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

• Knows basic linguistic patterns and structures of oral language, such as continuant and stop sounds and coarticulation of sounds.

• Demonstrates knowledge of stages and milestones in acquiring oral language and of relationships between oral language development and the development of reading competence.

• Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students' oral language development.

• Applies knowledge of instructional progressions, methods, and materials that build on and support students' oral language skills, reflect students' cultural and linguistic diversity, and are based on a convergence of research evidence (e.g., reading aloud, dramatizations, conversations, word play, discussions, questioning, presentations).

• Knows how to provide systematic oral language instruction using language structures and pronunciations commonly associated with standard English.

• Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students' oral language development and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Competency 002 (Phonological and Phonemic Awareness)
The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of phonological and phonemic awareness, relationships between phonological and phonemic awareness and the development of reading competence, and instructional methods that promote students' phonological and phonemic awareness at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates knowledge of expected stages and milestones in acquiring phonological and phonemic awareness and of relationships between phonological and phonemic awareness and reading acquisition.
- Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students' phonological and phonemic awareness.
- Applies knowledge of instructional sequences, strategies, and materials that reflect cultural and linguistic diversity, are based on a convergence of research evidence, and promote students' phonological and phonemic awareness.
- Knows how to provide systematic age-appropriate instruction and reinforcing activities to promote the development of students' phonological and phonemic awareness.
- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students' phonological and phonemic awareness and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Competency 003 (Concepts of Print and the Alphabetic Principle)
The reading specialist understands concepts of print and the alphabetic principle and applies knowledge of instructional methods that promote students' reading acquisition at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates an understanding of the development of concepts of print (e.g., left-right progression, spaces between words), and knows how to model and teach concepts of print.
- Demonstrates knowledge of the elements of the alphabetic principle, including graphophonemic knowledge and the relationship of the letters in printed words to spoken language.
- Demonstrates knowledge of expected stages and patterns in the development of students' understanding and application of the alphabetic principle and implications of individual variations in student development in this area.
- Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students' understanding and application of concepts of print and the alphabetic principle.
- Applies knowledge of instructional strategies and materials that reflect cultural and linguistic diversity, are based on a convergence of research evidence, and promote students' understanding and application of concepts of print and the alphabetic principle.
- Knows how to provide systematic age-appropriate instruction and reinforcing activities to promote students' understanding and application of concepts of print and the alphabetic principle.
- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students' understanding of and ability to apply concepts of print and the alphabetic principle and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Competency 004 (Word Identification)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of word identification skills and strategies and instructional methods that promote students’ reading competence at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates knowledge of word identification skills and strategies for reading words (e.g., application of the alphabetic principle, phonics, structural analysis, syllabication, identification of high-frequency sight words, use of context clues).

- Demonstrates knowledge of skills and strategies for confirming word pronunciation and/or meaning when reading words in text (e.g., use of context clues and resource materials).

- Demonstrates knowledge of expected stages and patterns in the use of word identification strategies and implications of individual variations in student development in this area.

- Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students’ strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students’ word identification skills.

- Applies knowledge of instructional strategies and materials that reflect cultural and linguistic diversity, are based on a convergence of research evidence, and promote students’ understanding and application of word identification skills.

- Knows how to provide systematic age-appropriate instruction and reinforcing activities to promote students’ word identification skills, including the use of increasingly complex, connected text.

- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students’ development of word identification skills and strategies and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Competency 005 (Fluency)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of reading fluency and instructional methods that promote students' reading competence at grades 1 through 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Recognizes the components of reading fluency (i.e., rate, accuracy, and prosody), and demonstrates knowledge of the relationship between reading fluency and reading comprehension.

- Demonstrates knowledge of expected patterns of development in reading fluency (including developmental benchmarks) and implications of individual variations in the development of reading fluency.

- Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students' reading fluency.

- Applies knowledge of instructional strategies and materials that reflect cultural and linguistic diversity, are based on a convergence of research evidence, and promote students' reading fluency.

- Knows how to provide systematic age-appropriate instruction and reinforcing activities to promote students' reading fluency.

- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students' reading fluency and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Competency 006 (Comprehension)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of reading comprehension and instructional methods that promote students' reading comprehension at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Knows a variety of comprehension theories/models (e.g., transactional, interactive, metacognitive, socio-psycholinguistic, constructivist) and their impact on instructional strategies.
- Identifies student factors that affect reading comprehension (e.g., schema, past reading instruction, oral language, interests, attitudes, word recognition skills, vocabulary, fluency, ability to monitor understanding).
- Applies knowledge of textual factors that affect students' reading comprehension (e.g., readability, vocabulary, visual representations, text organization, author's schema, genre, syntactical and conceptual density).
- Applies knowledge of contextual factors that affect students' reading comprehension (e.g., curriculum materials, time allotted for reading, grouping practices, environment, assigned task and purpose).
- Demonstrates knowledge of literal, inferential, critical, and evaluative comprehension skills, and knows how to provide instruction to promote students' literal, inferential, critical, and evaluative comprehension.
- Demonstrates knowledge of characteristics of types of texts and genres and strategies for reading a variety of texts and genres (e.g., expository and narrative texts, including electronic media and other visual representations).
- Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students' reading comprehension strategies.
- Applies knowledge of instructional strategies and materials that reflect cultural and linguistic diversity, are based on a convergence of research evidence, and promote students' reading comprehension skills.
- Knows how to promote students' comprehension skills by providing them with multiple opportunities to listen to, read, and respond in various ways to a wide variety of fiction and nonfiction texts.
- Knows how to promote students' ability to apply strategies that facilitate comprehension before, during, and after reading, including metacognitive strategies.
- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in the development of students' comprehension skills/strategies and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Competency 007 (Vocabulary Development)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of vocabulary development and instructional methods that promote students' oral and written vocabulary knowledge at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Recognizes the importance of teaching and modeling the use of a wide range of general, technical, and specialized vocabularies.
- Identifies student factors that influence vocabulary development (e.g., experiential background, cultural and linguistic diversity, interest in words, reading experience).
- Knows how to plan, implement, and monitor age-appropriate instruction that is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests and is based on ongoing informal and formal assessment of individual students' vocabulary knowledge.
- Applies knowledge of age-appropriate instructional strategies and materials that reflect students' cultural and linguistic diversity, are based on a convergence of research evidence, and promote students' vocabulary knowledge.
- Knows how to promote and extend students' vocabulary knowledge by providing systematic age-appropriate instruction and reinforcing activities (e.g., morphemic analysis, etymology, use of graphic organizers, contextual analysis, multiple exposures to a word in various contexts).
- Knows which strategies to use before, during, and after reading to facilitate students' vocabulary development.
- Demonstrates knowledge of age-appropriate strategies to teach students effective use of resources for vocabulary development (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, indexes, electronic media).
- Knows how to promote students' vocabulary development and knowledge by providing them with multiple opportunities to listen to, read, and respond in various ways to a wide variety of fiction and nonfiction texts.
- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students' vocabulary development and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
Reading Specialist Certification

Competency 008 (Written Language)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of written language and instructional methods to reinforce reading and writing at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Recognizes the reciprocal nature of reading and writing, the similarities and differences between spoken and written language, and the relationships among listening, speaking, reading, and writing.
- Demonstrates knowledge of the developmental continuum of students' written language, including milestones in physical and/or cognitive processes (e.g., letter formation, spelling, sentence construction, paragraph development).
- Knows how to create an environment in which students are motivated to express their ideas through writing and how to use appropriate instructional strategies and sequences for developing students' writing throughout the writing process (e.g., prewriting, drafting, editing, revising).
- Applies knowledge of instructional strategies for developing students' meaningful writing for a variety of audiences, purposes, and settings.
- Applies knowledge of instructional strategies for developing students' writing in connection with listening and speaking and in response to reading.
- Knows how to provide students with opportunities to self-assess their writing (e.g., voice, coherence, depth of ideas, focus sentence-to-sentence movement) and elicit critiques of their writing from others.
- Knows how to model the use of writing conventions and appropriate grammar and usage to communicate clearly and effectively in writing and to reinforce students' use of writing conventions and appropriate grammar and usage.
- Demonstrates understanding of the role of spelling and graphophonemic knowledge in reading and writing, factors that affect students' spelling, the stages of spelling development (i.e., prephonetic, phonetic, transitional, and conventional), how and when to support students' development from one stage to the next, and procedures for providing systematic spelling instruction.
- Applies knowledge of the benefits of technology for teaching writing (e.g., word processing, desktop publishing software).
- Knows how to formally and informally monitor and assess students' writing development, including their use of writing conventions, and how to use assessment results to develop focused instruction that is responsive to students' strengths, needs, and interests to reinforce students' writing skills.
- Demonstrates knowledge of delays or differences in students' writing and spelling development and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment and additional intervention.
DOMAIN II—INSTRUCTION AND ASSESSMENT: RESOURCES AND PROCEDURES

Competency 009 (Assessment)
The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of assessment instruments and procedures used to monitor and evaluate student progress in reading and to guide instructional decision making at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates knowledge of the reciprocal nature of assessment and instruction, and uses multiple and varied reading assessments before, during, and after instruction to monitor progress and design and modify instruction.

- Applies knowledge of the characteristics, advantages, and limitations of types of reading assessment (e.g., norm-referenced, criterion-referenced, formal and informal inventories, constructed-response, portfolios, running records, miscue analyses, observations, anecdotal records, journals, technology-based assessments) and their use in monitoring and evaluating student progress in the components of reading (i.e., oral language, phonological and phonemic awareness, concepts of print, alphabetic principle, word identification, fluency, comprehension, vocabulary development, and written language).

- Uses information from reading assessments for various purposes (e.g., screening, in-depth assessment, continuous progress monitoring, formative and summative evaluation).

- Knows how to identify students' independent, instructional, and frustrational reading level and listening comprehension level and to adjust instruction to accelerate learning.

- Applies knowledge of a variety of methods for assessing students' reading, study, and inquiry skills across content areas.

- Demonstrates knowledge of instructional strategies that promote students' use of self-assessment to enhance literacy development.

- Analyzes factors that may impact student performance on various types of assessment (e.g., text characteristics; testing environment; student characteristics such as language, culture, prior knowledge, disabilities).

- Applies knowledge of assessment-related concepts and issues (e.g., reliability, validity, utility, bias, confidentiality) and common standardized testing terminology (e.g., raw score, scaled score, percentile, grade equivalency, stanine, normal curve equivalency [NCE], growth scale) in selecting and using assessments and interpreting results.

- Knows state and federal requirements related to reading assessment and diagnosis.

- Applies skills for communicating to various stakeholders the results and instructional implications of formal and informal assessments.

- Knows grade-level expectations for literacy and when delays or differences in language and literacy development warrant referral for additional evaluation or intervention.
Reading Specialist Certification

Competency 010 (Instructional Methods and Resources)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of methods and resources for providing effective literacy instruction that addresses the varied learning needs of all students at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

• Knows about state and national standards and requirements that relate to reading and writing curriculum and instruction.

• Knows how to develop systematic, sequential age-appropriate literacy instruction that reflects content and performance standards, components of a comprehensive literacy program, students’ strengths and needs, and a convergence of research evidence.

• Applies knowledge of educational theories that underlie instructional practices and components of effective instructional design.

• Applies knowledge of instructional methods and resources to provide effective literacy instruction that addresses various student dialects, learning preferences, and modalities.

• Knows how to select materials and provide instruction that promotes respect for cultural and linguistic diversity and fosters all students’ literacy development.

• Knows how to implement effective instructional strategies that focus on specific literacy components (e.g., oral language, phonological and phonemic awareness, concepts of print, alphabetic principle, word identification, fluency, comprehension, vocabulary development, written language), and identifies specific short-term and long-term interventions to address student needs in each component.

• Identifies appropriate strategies for addressing the literacy needs and accelerating the achievement of students who are reading below grade level.

• Recognizes the value of using flexible grouping to promote literacy growth for all students, and knows how to assist other educators in implementing flexible grouping.

• Knows how to evaluate, select, and incorporate various types of reading materials, including children's and young adult literature, expository texts, and other instructional materials for a range of reading levels, purposes, and interests.

• Knows how to support students’ learning in all content areas by teaching them to apply various strategies for comprehending expository and narrative texts and by promoting their acquisition and use of study and inquiry skills (e.g., note taking, outlining, skimming and scanning, using graphic organizers, setting purposes for reading, self-assessing, locating and evaluating multiple sources of information).

• Knows how to promote students’ comprehension, literary response, and analysis using various genres.

• Knows how to design and implement instruction in interpreting, analyzing, and evaluating information (e.g., maps, charts, graphics, video segments, technology presentations) and how to use media to produce visual images, messages, and meanings.
DOMAIN III—MEETING THE NEEDS OF INDIVIDUAL STUDENTS

Competency 011 (Instruction for English Language Learners)

The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of effective literacy instruction for English Language Learners at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates knowledge of expected stages and patterns of first- and second-language learning and issues and concepts related to the transfer of literacy competency from one language to another.
- Applies knowledge of issues and procedures in assessing English Language Learners' reading strengths and needs, including when to collaborate with other specialists to aid in assessment.
- Applies knowledge of how to develop systematic, sequential, age-appropriate reading instruction for English Language Learners that is based on a convergence of research evidence and is responsive to individual students' strengths, needs, and interests.
- Knows how to work with other professionals in selecting and using appropriate formal and informal assessments of English Language Learners and in planning effective literacy instruction, including selecting instructional materials and strategies that reflect cultural diversity.
- Knows how to work with other professionals to implement and monitor instruction that reflects an awareness of appropriate instructional progressions and that facilitates students' transfer of oral language skills and literacy from their primary language to English while maintaining literacy in their primary language.
- Applies strategies for collaborating with teachers, specialists, parents/guardians, students, and administrators to promote and maintain English Language Learners' literacy in English and their primary language.
- Recognizes the importance of distinguishing between language differences and reading disabilities, and knows when additional assessment and additional intervention is needed.
Competency 012 (Instruction for Students with Reading Difficulties, Dyslexia, and Reading Disabilities)
The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of effective literacy instruction for students with reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities at the levels of early childhood through grade 12.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Applies knowledge of the characteristics and instructional implications of reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities in relation to the development of reading competence.
- Knows about state and federal laws, regulations, guidelines, and procedures regarding assessment and provision of services for students with reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities.
- Knows how to work with other professionals to select and administer appropriate formal and informal assessments for students with reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities and analyze results to plan effective literacy instruction that is responsive to individual strengths, needs, and interests.
- Uses results from formal and informal assessments to determine when in-depth evaluation and additional intervention are warranted.
- Applies knowledge of convergent research about practices for providing effective literacy instruction to students with reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities, including both prevention and intervention strategies.
- Uses assessment results to design age-appropriate instruction that promotes reading skills and strategies by building on strengths and addressing needs of students with reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities.
- Applies strategies for collaborating with teachers, specialists, parents/guardians, students, and administrators to promote literacy for individual students with reading difficulties, dyslexia, and reading disabilities.
- Knows how to monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of an intervention and how to determine when additional or alternative interventions are appropriate.
DOMAIN IV—PROFESSIONAL KNOWLEDGE AND LEADERSHIP

Competency 013 (Theoretical Foundations and Research-Based Curriculum)
The reading specialist understands and applies knowledge of the theoretical foundations of literacy and of research-based reading/literacy curriculum.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates knowledge of major theories of language acquisition, reading, cognition, and learning (e.g., behaviorism, cognitive theory, constructivism, transactional theory) and how they relate to approaches and practices in literacy instruction.
- Analyzes the impact of physical, perceptual, emotional, social, cultural, linguistic, environmental, and intellectual factors on learning, language development, and reading competence.
- Demonstrates knowledge of the significance of interactions among the reader, the text, and the context of the reading situation.
- Knows the role of societal trends and technological innovations in shaping literacy needs (e.g., the Internet, reading electronic texts).
- Applies knowledge of convergent research on reading and literacy instruction for all students, and identifies sources for locating information about convergent research on reading and literacy instruction.
- Applies knowledge of the foundations of basic research design, methodology, and application to critically review research on reading and to select research findings for the purpose of improving reading instruction.
- Knows how to prepare written documentation of literacy assessment data, analysis of instructional needs, and accommodations for instruction.
Competency 014 (Collaboration, Communication, and Professional Development)

The reading specialist understands and applies procedures for collaborating and communicating with educational stakeholders and for designing, implementing, evaluating, and participating in professional development.

The beginning reading specialist:

- Demonstrates knowledge of how to use leadership, communication, and facilitation skills and strategies to effect positive change in the school reading program and literacy instruction.

- Demonstrates knowledge of principles, guidelines, and professional ethical standards related to collegial and professional collaborations, and applies skills and procedures for facilitating effective interactions among groups and individuals to improve literacy instruction for all students.

- Knows how to communicate research findings and make recommendations based on a convergence of research evidence to colleagues and the wider community.

- Knows how to communicate local data and information related to literacy issues and, when appropriate, make recommendations to district staff and community stakeholders.

- Applies strategies for working with other educators to involve parents/guardians in cooperative efforts to support students' reading and writing development.

- Knows how to use local data to identify and prioritize professional development needs and provide professional development experiences that address the needs of participants, are sensitive to school constraints (e.g., class size, limited resources), and use multiple indicators to monitor and evaluate effectiveness.

- Demonstrates knowledge of strategies for facilitating positive change in instructional practices through professional development and for working with other educators to initiate, implement, and evaluate professional development and its impact on instructional practice.

- Applies knowledge of procedures for effectively mentoring and coaching educators to promote the successful implementation and sustained application of instructional practices addressed in professional development.

- Knows how to expand knowledge of literacy through a variety of professional activities (e.g., reading professional publications, participating in conferences), and recognizes the value of participating in local, state, national, and international professional organizations whose mission is the improvement of literacy.
HOW TO READ YOUR TExES SCORE REPORT

Your score report has three sections: 1) Total Test Performance, 2) Performance by Domain, and 3) Performance by Competency. These results have been forwarded to the TEA and State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC) and, based on the information you provided, to your recommending Texas educator preparation program (college, university, or alternative certification program). Scores for one test are reported on each score report. Keep all score reports for your records. Once you’ve passed your required tests, you must apply for certification - please see last section for details on how to apply.

TOTAL TEST PERFORMANCE

Your total scaled score shows how you performed on the test as a whole and whether you passed the test. For TExMAT and TExES the score range is 100 to 300 with a minimum passing score of 240. For ExCET, the score range is 1 to 100 with a minimum passing score of 70. TOPT score range is 2 to 8 with a minimum passing level of C (levels A, B and C are passing). A score of U indicates the test was unscorable. Minimum passing standards for the tests were established by the SBEC with input from committees of Texas educators. The passing score is designed to reflect the minimum level of knowledge required for effective performance by a beginning educator in Texas public schools.

Total test results are reported in terms of a scaled score. The scale score allows comparison among any version of the same test. The raw scores that are reported are not comparable from one version of a test to another.

You receive one point for each correct response and zero points for each incorrect response. Note that the scaled score is not determined by averaging the number of questions correct within each domain (or competency). Further information about scoring is available at www.texas.ets.org.

PERFORMANCE BY DOMAIN

In this section, data are reported by the major content areas, called domains. For each domain, the number of questions on the test and the number you answered correctly are indicated. This information is descriptive only. Individual domains do not have passing scores. Passing status is based only on the total test score. Note that the domains with the greater numbers of competencies have a greater number of questions on the test.

Nonscorable Questions. The total number of questions reported on your score report is typically less than the total number of questions on the test. Nonscorable questions are usually included on each test. These nonscorable questions are not used in calculating your score.

PERFORMANCE BY COMPETENCY

In this section, data are reported by competencies within the domains. For each competency, the number of questions on the test and the number you answered correctly are indicated.

It is important to use caution when interpreting data reported by competency. Evaluating your performance based on a small number of test questions should be done carefully. To understand more fully your performance on each portion of the test, refer to the list of competencies that is provided in the preparation manual for the test you took.

Registering for Future Administrations

Tests may be retaken, if necessary. Reminder, you may be required to obtain approval to test from your educator preparation program. Consult the current Registration Bulletin for the test dates and registration procedures. Registration Bulletins are available for download on the TExES Web site at www.texas.ets.org. You can also obtain a copy of the Registration Bulletin from the certification offices at Texas educator preparation programs. You can also register online at www.texas.ets.org.

Applying for Texas Certification

You must apply online and pay the appropriate fee if you have met all requirements for a Standard Certificate. Please refer to the State Board of Educator Certification web site at www.sbec.state.tx.us for application procedures.
